W.J. MALONEY PLUMBING EARNS DISADVANTAGED BUSINESS ENTERPRISE CERTIFICATION

W.J. Maloney Plumbing Co., Inc. has announced that it has earned the Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (DBE) certification from the Arizona Department of Transportation (ADOT). The company is certified in the following specialties: commercial plumbing, process piping, mechanical piping and as a supplier of plumbing materials.

Companies with the DBE designation are firms located in the United States that are owned and controlled by a person or persons belonging to designated minority groups or by women. To be certified, DBE firms must pass a Universal Certification Program (UCP).

As a certified DBE, W.J. Maloney Plumbing may be used to satisfy DBE subcontracting goals on federally-funded construction projects. DBE certification is also valid on all contracts bid by the City of Phoenix that specify the use of DBE subcontractors, and on projects bid by Maricopa County that specify the use of minorities or women.
