School's out, but not for W.J. Maloney Plumbing, Heating & Cooling; Fast-track work at nine Phoenix-area schools gets underway

With school out for the summer, W.J. Maloney Plumbing, Heating & Cooling has begun work on the renovation and upgrading of science classrooms at eight schools in the Phoenix Union High School District and one in the Paradise Valley Unified School District.

Work on the renovation and creation of new science labs includes the replacement of all piping for water, gas and waste systems under an accelerated timeline that will ensure that the contractor's work at each of the schools will be completed by the time school opens in the fall.

Chasse Building Team and McCarthy are the two general contractors working on the high schools projects, which include Carl Hayden, Cesar Chavez, Metro Tech and North high schools, as well as Alhambra, Bostrom, Trevor G. Browne and Maryvale high schools. Ry-Tan is the general contractor for the Paradise Valley School District project at Sunrise Middle School.

"Being able to meet stringent deadlines is something our team takes great pride in," said Kathryn "Kitty" Maloney-Langmade, president of W.J. Maloney Plumbing, Heating & Cooling. "And being able to deliver the quality craftsmanship to these classrooms that will enhance the learning experience for high school and middle school students is rewarding, as well.”
